

Allameh Tabataba'i University (ATU)

Allameh Tabataba'i University (ATU) is the largest public university in Iran, focusing specifically on humanities and social sciences. Though it is not a comprehensive university, ATU provides quality education and research opportunities to Iranian and foreign students. As of the 2017-2018 academic year, ATU has nearly 18000 students and more than 550 faculty members, studying and teaching in 57 different departments. It was officially established in 1984 through the merging of 27 different colleges, schools and universities, with the oldest of those institutes dating back to 1957. Many senior Iranian government officials are ATU graduates.
